4,500 TROOPS NOW IN GUARD CAMP

119TH FIELD ARTILLERY ARRIVE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Several Band Concerts Scheduled for Grayling.

About 4,500 Michigan National Guard officers and men are now in camp at Hanson State Military reservation and are undergoing the usual courses of military instructions.

The weather has been most excellent most of the time and the days just cool enough to enable the men to work hard without the hardship of hot weather. The morale of the camp is excellent and the training schedules are being pulled off as arranged.

A special feature of the camp this year is the march of the 119th Field artillery from Sterling to Grayling, a distance of 85 miles. They arrived in Sterling August 6th, beginning their march the next day. Sunday was spent in West Branch where they spent the day, thousands of people visiting the camp, including Gen. Wilson and his staff. They arrived in Grayling Wednesday evening, and were royally received. Col. Lewis, commanding the 119th, expressed himself as more than pleased with the march and the men looked as if they had enjoyed their experiences. Only two minor accidents happened and practically no sickness. The regiment occupied about two miles of road while on the march and other highway traffic was interrupted for a few hours on this last section of the route. The 119th consists of 500 officers and men and 522 horses together with a complete artillery outfit.

Next Sunday, August 16th, will be a big day in camp. In the morning there will be Memorial service in front of Gen. Wilson's quarters on Division hill. In the afternoon there will be a review of all the troops of the camp, at the field near the cement mess hall. It is expected that Gov. Greenback will be present that day. The first contingent to leave camp will be the 182nd Field Artillery, they leaving camp for home Monday night. Others will leave at intervals up to Friday, August 22nd. On Tuesday afternoon Gen. Wilson and his staff paid an official visit to the mayor of Grayling, R. D. Connine, who with a number of his councilmen, met at the Court house to receive the visitors. It was a cordial gathering meeting to discuss matters pertaining to the road of the camp and the village alike. The feeling between the people and officials of Grayling and the Guard has always been the best ever and there is no reason why it should not continue indefinitely. There never has been the slightest friction or misunderstanding to arise between the people of the town and the camp. The latter means much to the people of Grayling and we cannot afford to be otherwise but friendly and besides we have learned to know personally many of the men in camp until they are looked upon as old friends returning for their annual visits.

OFFICERS FIND SMALL BREWERY

CAPTURE 60 GALLONS BEER AND SMASH 478 BOTTLES

Sheriff Bobenmoyer and his deputies last week transferred their activities to the southern part of the county and as a result, last Saturday arrested Edward Headstead and his wife charging them with violation of the prohibition law, and confiscated 2 1/2 cases of bottled beer and fifty gallons of beer ready to be bottled, and four quarts of whiskey, and for good measure, smashed 478 empty beer bottles.

Headstead, it is reported, had made boasts of what he would do to the sheriff if he ever came around his place, but it seems that that wasn't enough to frighten "Bob" any and he just went down there and took him and his wife to jail. They are bound over to the Circuit court for trial. Headstead is out on $1,000 bail and his wife on $500.

SPECIAL PREMIUM ANNOUNCED FOR TOP O' MICHIGAN POTATO SHOW

A special class with $100 in cash prizes is to be fostered by the State Department of Agriculture at the Top O' Michigan Potato Show, according to Mr. A. C. Lytle, Secretary of the Show. To compete in this class, an exhibitor is required to furnish one bushel of field run potatoes, one half of which he must have graded according to the Michigan grading law, thus dividing this half-bushel into three lots: No. 1, No. 2, and No. 3. All three of these lots will be inspected by an expert on the enforcement of the grading law to see if any potatoes have been misplaced. Hence, the premium would be awarded strictly on the ability of the producer to interpret the Michigan grades. The first prize will be $50 in cash.

Remember to break your match before throwing it away. Broken matches won't start many fires.

MINE PARLEY MAY BE RESUMED SOON

Threatened Coal Strike Expected to Be Averted—Coolidge Optimistic.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Negotiations between operators and miners in the anthracite coal fields may be resumed and the suspension of work, now threatened for September 1, averted, according to reports prevalent here.

The optimistic outlook for settlement of the wage differences which have blocked writing of a new contract to supplant the one which expires on August 31 was based on intimations that the miners would adopt a more conciliatory tone. The way for a resumption of the parleys, which were broken off when Samuel D. Warren, chairman of the anthracite operators' committee, denied that the conference representatives at the conference were "supermen." Warren's second letter, Mr. Coolidge's attitude reinforced the reports of a resumption of conference. It was pointed out that the miners would be fully as conciliatory as the peace overture of the operators' leader.

Scamposett, Mass., President Coolidge believes that the anthracite coal negotiations broken off at Atlantic City will be resumed in the near future by the miners and operators. It was officially stated at White Court.

MINERS PREPARE TO STRIKE SEPT. 1

Operators Refuse to Concede Wage Raise—Workers Won't Arbitrate.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Authority to call out 158,000 anthracite miners if no agreement with the operators is reached by midnight, August 31, was vested in the subcommittee which failed to negotiate an agreement with the operators at sessions terminating here.

The action was taken by the full senate committee, composed of 40 members.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Refusal of the anthracite operators to concede a wage increase and the check-off caused the coal miners to break off negotiations for a new contract.

This action was taken in advance of the operators' submission of their formal reply to the demands of the miners, who had not quite finished presenting their case.

With federal intervention, as reported from Swampscott, out of the question until after the present agreement expires on September 1, and with a reluctance on both sides to submit their case to Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, a strike of 158,000 anthracite mine workers appears certain.

Persistent rumors here link a walk-out in the bituminous fields to be timed simultaneously with the expected anthracite strike on September 1. Basis of the break in negotiations over the anthracite strike, which began on July 9, was the demand by President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers on July 31, that Samuel D. Warrier, president of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, and W. B. Richards, president of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal company, take part in the conferences.

Lewis alleged that the operators' subcommittee is composed of minor heads and that it was without power.

The operators asked two questions: the first was whether, in view of the operators' opposition to a wage increase and the check-off, the miners refused to continue negotiations. This evoked an affirmative reply.

The second question was a request to submit matters in dispute to arbitration. In reply the miners pointed to Mr. Lewis' letter, alleging that in a previous arbitration the mine workers lost $80,000,000 in the two years they lost the knowledge that they now possess concerning the anthracite operators' well-known policy of "keeping close to an arbitrator."

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

Practically Destitute in Fact

Some of my dearest boyhood memories cluster about a "gravel-covered wharf" where the Tennessee like an amorous lady, kisses the Ohio not once but twice and then in the embrace of the wider, stronger stream goes romancing away to receive the paternal blessing of that father of all the rivers, the Old Mississippi. There on the porch of an ancient boatstore overlooking the mating place of the waters I heard tales of the older days when the gamblers rode the packets and the mate knew no closed season on black roustabouts and the b'lers hustled from time to time and scattered proud streamboats in splintery smithereens. There too, I once heard what I still, after all these years, regard as a magnificent example of spontaneous American humor.

Tilted back in his chair on the boatstore porch sat Cap'n Joe Fowler, as typical a Kentuckian as the tug end of the last century produced. A packet bound from Cincinnati to New Orleans landed. Up the steep slope of the wharf came a tourist lady from up North somewhere—anywhere across the Ohio was "up North" to us in that town. In the crook of her arm this lady bore the first Mexican hairless dog Cap'n Joe had ever seen. The animal was no larger than a full grown rat. In fact it rather resembled a rat. It seemed a miserable, naked, sickly little thing which shivered even though the air was balmy and flinched with vague uneasiness at every sound.

As the lady drew close Cap'n Joe stood up and made a low bow to her. "I beg your pardon, madam," he said in his best company drawl, "but might a total stranger so far intrude upon you as to ask you a question?" "You might," she said, her sharp accents in strong contrast to his deeper yet infinitely softer tones. "Thank you, madam," he said. "The question, madam, relates to the dog you are carrying. Is that your own dog?"

"It is," she said.

"Is that the only dog you've got?"

"It is."

"Madam," said Cap'n Joe, "ain't you mighty nigh out of dog?"

Where Jimmy's Education Really Was Shy

After a twenty years' absence a gentleman returned to the little New England town where he had been born and where he spent his boyhood. In the neighborhood in which he had been reared he found but one of the original residents remaining, an elderly Irish lady. He made himself known to her, and she welcomed him back home again, and promptly fell to talking of the boys and girls with whom he had grown up. This one, she told him, had turned out badly. That one had turned out well. Some were dead. Some had moved away. Finally he asked:

"Tell me, Mrs. Daly, whatever became of poor little Jimmy McKenna who used to live in the shanty right down the street here?"

"Poor, is it?" echoed Mrs. Daly. "Poor, indeed! Jimmy McKenna had no schoolin', as you may remember, but when he grew up he got into the truckin' business and from that he turned to contractin', and though he couldn't read and write, he made a million."

"But," said the returned one, "and where is he now?"

"As to that," said Mrs. Daly, "I couldn't say. I hope, though, he's in heaven. You see, nor here about two years ago Jimmy went down to the gravel pit where some of the boys was in swimmin', and it bein' a warm day he took off his clothes and waded in; and he waded out too far and he got over his head and was drowned."

"Oh, that's too bad," said the visitor. "To think of a boy who had no better start than Jim McKenna had doing so well in the world, and then meeting an end like that! And he made a million, you say? And yet he couldn't read and write?"

"No," said Mrs. Daly, "nor swim."

Not a Family of Musicians

A self-made western millionaire built the finest house in his home town. He imported decorators to furnish it, and managed to get it finished by the time his eldest son arrived from the East where the youth had been completing his education.

The proud father escorted the young man through the shining new mansion, followed by the other members of the household. When the grand tour had been completed the millionaire inquired whether his son had any suggestions to make.

"Well," said the young man, "to me it seems complete in every possible detail except one."

"What's missin'?" demanded the parent.

"You ought to have a chandelier in the main drawing-room," said the boy.

"All right," said the father. "I'll order one by telegraph tonight but I'll bet a thousand dollars there ain't a d-n one in the family can play it."

Scraps

For 40 years John Sweeten served as a conductor of a passenger train running out of Bridgeton, N. J., and never had an accident. Then he retired and a very short time afterward suffered the fracture of two ribs when he fell down stairs.

Even if love weren't blind there would doubtless be just as many divorce courts doing business.

We have more strength than will, and it is often merely for an excuse we say things are impossible.

STYLES FOR LATE SUMMER; SHEER, COLORFUL LINGERIE

WHEN August comes leading in the burning sun of late summer, women demand clothes that are cool and comfortable—and that look all of that. In fact, they insist more upon a cool appearance than upon actual coolness in their apparel, as witness those small, white, felt or white kid hats that are popular. Felt hats are not cool, but they are soft and comfortable and light ones look cool—high combination of good points has settled success for them.

Plain linen is a time-honored fabric that has maintained its place because it is evident that in their summer minds there is so connecting whatever between cold weather and underclothes. The responsibility of keeping the family world warm in cold weather is blithely switched over to outer garments—let sweaters, frocks, coats and heating apparatus do it, appears to be their motto. The several types of undergarments, except for athletic, concern themselves with beauty of color, daintiness of fabric, easy adjustment to the figure and a general prettiness—which last item seems to be most important of all.

Cool Comfort is Keynote of This Costume.

It looks cool in summer frocks, and because it lingers perfectly. But open-work linen looks cool and is cool and a frock of it is presented herewith, as an ideal garment for the hottest weather. The picture shows it to be simple in design, bordered with scalloped pieces of plain linen down the front, back and sleeves. The bodice has a front panel of crepe de chine with a scalloped hem. The skirt has a strip of light linen down the front, adorned also with small pearl buttons. A plain and openwork trim in any light color, with white linen in blindings and Accessories will develop this look successfully.

The small hat of silk with sectional crown and narrow turned-up brim, is of the cool, subtle kind that can be folded or flattened, to put in a suitcase. The last chapter in millinery's summer story deals with the career of this bit of practical and beautiful headwear, which is so accommodating and becoming. It is as light and cool as it is pretty. As to the footwear that supports this hot weather costume, it plays its important role perfectly. White silk stockings, light brown or gray kid pumps—nothing could be more cool and comfortable.

Designers and makers of lingerie are presenting their new fall lines of most women over other fall fashions and new rivals of these old favorites find it hard to dislodge them. The laces most used for trimming are finer, stouter and val, with embroidered net and net footing in their company.

The picture given here shows a pajama set made of flesh-colored crepe de chine and trimmed with frills of cream-colored val lace. A narrow ribbon of gold and little chiffon nosegay at the neck finish it. It has the popular slip-on jacket and is a model that may be developed in radium silk, satette, wash satin, checked nainsook or cotton crepes.

Formal Riding Hat
The derby is still the formal riding hat and usually is made in hatter's plush, felt or velvet. The tricorne type, which is less formal, enjoys widest popularity among the devotees of the cross-saddle.

New Versions of the Choker
The newest choker is a two-strand affair, each strand composed of smoke and flesh-colored pearls arranged in half-and-half effect.

Little Velvet Hats
Decent, Agnes and Reboux. It is said, will introduce little hats of velvet in vivid colors ornamented by intricate stitching, and hats of similar type are shown by Cora Marson.

Flowers for the Lapel
Small water-lilies or narcissus make a pleasant change from the usual artificial flower to wear upon one's coat. Their waxiness makes them appropriate for mourning wear.

PROUD MR. BEETLE

"It's a matter of pride to me," said Mr. Beetle.

"Yes, it is a matter of great pride to me. Anyone in my position would be proud, too."

"I am in your position," said the Red-Winged Locust, "and I don't know that I am feeling particularly proud."

"I am crawling slowly about my cage here in the zoo as you are doing."

"Is that a position of which to be proud?"

"My dear Red-Winged," said the Beetle, "you are slow. You don't understand."

"Pardon me, my dear sir," said the Red-Winged Locust, "but you are thinking of my distant relatives, the snails."

"That is, they are not my near relatives, and I am not really sure that they are relatives at all."

"In fact, come to think of it, I don't believe they are relatives at all."

"My dear Mr. Red-Winged Locust," said Mr. Beetle, "why don't you think before you speak?"

"That's an old, old saying, older than you are or than I am."

"It's older than most creatures, I believe."

"But it's a good old saying, just the same."

"Well," admitted Mr. Red-Winged Locust, slowly, "I suppose I should have thought before I spoke."

"But the snails, I suppose, do belong to the insect class, and so do I; and so do you, so there must be some sort of a family relationship."

"No more than there is between boys and girls of entirely different families."

"He did not mind being stupid."

and from different states and countries and lands," said Mr. Beetle.

"They're all people, but they're not related."

"Well," said Mr. Red-Winged Locust, "you said I was slow, and I couldn't bear that."

"Ah," said Mr. Beetle, "I mean that you were slow with your mind, your thoughts."

Mr. Red-Winged Locust seemed to feel much better at hearing that.

He did not mind being stupid as long as he wasn't considered as slow in his actions as the snails.

"What is a matter of pride to you?" he asked after a moment, of Mr. Beetle.

"Ah, my dear Mr. Red-Winged Locust, listen and I will tell thee."

"Fine language, heigh-ho," said Mr. Red-Winged Locust.

"I know that you come from the South," commenced Mr. Beetle, "but I come from still further South."

"I come from South America, and my whole name is Mr. Hercules Beetle."

It was named after a man of ancient fame who was very brave and who did very wonderful things.

"Well, well, well," said Mr. Red-Winged Locust, "I am glad you get so much joy out of that, but for my part I would rather be named a red-winged locust, as red wings are so gay and royal and noble."

"I wouldn't care so much just being named after some one else who was fine and brave and all that sort of thing."

"Each to his own taste," said Mr. Hercules Beetle, as he crawled proudly away—or rather as proudly as a creature can crawl.

Which, after all, is not so very fine, as crawling is not a lofty way of moving about.

Still Mr. Hercules Beetle did his best.

Father's Knowledge

Benton was bragging that his father knew "bout ever'thing" but Ted was not at all sure that he did.

He could remember several times when he had answered right straight to some question. "Well, really, Ted, I'm sure I don't know."

But he wanted to brag on his father, too, and so he said: "Well, my father doesn't know ever'thing, but we got a dictionary that knows the rest."

Would Be a Man

Suzanne's mother telephoned Ted that she was going to let her come over and play with him.

When he came from the phone he said: "Oh, mother, Suzanne is comin' over. Quick, take my rompers off and put on my suit, 'cause I want her to see me as a man."

Knowledge

"Dolly, what did you learn in school today?"

"I learned the name of the boy who moved next door, mamma."

Might as Well

Sister Susie (to little Billie, after making mud pies all afternoon)—Oh, dear me, we're awfully dirty! I'm ashamed to go home.

Little Billie—Let's get dirtier. They'll wash us anyway, now.

Their Remarkable Appetite

Sunday School Teacher Robert, who were the Pharisees?

(Bobby)—The Pharisees were people who fasted in public and in secret devoured widows' houses.

Out How Much?

Minister—The treasurer, who was to have made a report, has not appeared, so we'll consider the Sunday school out.

Inquisitive Member—Out how much, may I ask?

No Inducement

Judge—How is it you haven't a lawyer to defend you?

Prisoner—As soon as they found out that I hadn't stolen the money they would not have anything to do with the case.

To Soften Effect

"When Sportleigh asked whether you thought his clothes too loud, what did you say?"

"Advised him to wear a muffler."

Boil the Bill

Waiter—Everything cooked to please you, sir?

Patron—Yes, all but the bill; just take that back and tell them to boil it down a little.

FRESHENING BREEZES

The first of September is to be portrayed as a young lady standing in a shady pool. Now it's the time when the coal miners quit digging for coal and start digging for more gold.

A woman says war can be talked to death. Probably goes on the theory that as soon as one of the fair sex starts to argue the most of us guys come in and surrender.

What has become of the old-fashioned keeper of the tavern who used to reckon that about twenty-five cents would be enough to pay for your dinner?

A southern Michigan man is said to have had the last word with his wife. He yelled "good night" just as she started the kitchen fire with a can of gasoline.

Instead of standing around wondering what has happened to the industrial situation why not try rolling up your sleeves for a while.

Economy can be said to be a national trait whenever one is able to ask for something a little cheaper and not have it charged.

The controversy down in Tennessee is said to have started in a drug store. Up here in Michigan we don't start any arguments in a drug store—we know the druggist will say "no" any way.

And Now in Closing—

Remember that the wheels of industry are not the ones that are under the family flyover parked out in the back yard. It is just as necessary to shoot a little coal now to keep industry humming as it was in the old days when the full dinner pail made us the proudest nation on earth.

LOVELLS NEWS.

While fishing at Crapo lake Ray Duby and his uncle, Joe Duby, caught a snapping turtle weighing 35 pounds. It had the initials G. L. carved on its back and the year 1900. It isn't a fish story either.

Edgar Caid and John Roe went for a trip north.

A few of the Lovells folks motored to West Branch Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Nephew and Mrs. Duby made a trip to Gaylord Sunday.

N. C. Cotabish of Lakewood, Ohio, spent a few days at Lovells.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Marratt and son Billy are occupying the Papenfus cottage.

Don't forget the dance at Lovells Thursday night.

Alfred Hanna has returned home after serving a year with the Coast guards.

Clare Melroy and family are visiting Mrs. G. Hanna.

R. Caid and family had quite a fright when their house caught fire. A few things were destroyed but we are pleased that no more damage was done.

WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT EAST MICHIGAN.

"I am enthusiastic about California, but I must admit your Michigan weather is wonderful."—W. Harold Kingley, California publisher.

"That the East Michigan Tourist association is accomplishing a lot for this section is manifest in the number of tourists that have been seen this year. That the organization is attracting attention through the work it is doing is evidenced in the comments which are made by the residents of this section."—Sheriff McKenna, Ogemaw county.

Apples Oddly Colored

Apple trees planted near a perpendicular rock cliff at Cashmere, Wash., produced apples that were colored on one side only because the sun and light could not reach the side next to the cliff. The location was chosen so that the roots might find perpetual moisture at the foot of the cliff.

Meaning of Great Statue

The Saint Gaudens statue in Rock Creek cemetery is correctly called the "Adams Memorial." Saint Gaudens had no intention of symbolizing "grief" in designing the figure. He said that to him it represented the soul face to face with the greatest of life's misfortunes—"If a man die shall he live again?"

Lizet Knew Fame Early

Franz Lizet was a pianist of note before he was in his teens.

Both teams were evenly matched and it was an all around good game. Some nice hits were registered by the locals, with only a few errors on either side.

"Babe" Laurant was on the mound for the locals with "Fuzzy" Reynolds behind the bat. The score was three to one. The same team will play here next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Come out and see Grayling boys take the soldier boys into camp again.

Hub Hurler Worked Overtime Last Year

Howard Hurler, of the Boston Red Sox, was the hardest worked pitcher in the league last season, pitching a total of 315 innings. He stood eighth in effectiveness and ranked well up for control. He took part in 45 games—all told and pitched 23 complete games.

The honor of pitching the most games from start to finish went to Hollis Thurston, who was in 28 complete games and who ranked next to Hurler in number of innings pitched in the season. Pennock was in 25 complete games—Johnson was in but 20.

LONG SLUMBER COST SLOAN BIG FORTUNE

Charlie Dwyer Neglected to Place Bet for Famous Jockey on a Winner.

Twenty years ago while Tod Sloan was the riding sensation of Europe, he was invited to one of the famous sporting parties in London. It was at most daylight when the farewells were spoken.

Charlie Dwyer, son of the famous Dwyer brothers in New York, had been with Sloan at the affair. Just before the two departed, Sloan handed Dwyer 2,000 pounds (about $10,000) and said to him:

"Put this on my mount in the fourth race—all of it on the nose. I'm going to bring him home in front."

Dwyer, who placed most of Sloan's bets during the time, said "all right" and then hustled off to his hotel.

Sloan rode his mount to victory in the fourth, just as he had predicted. The horse, an outsider, paid $12 to $1 and Sloan figured he had won $120,000.

After the race Sloan looked around for Dwyer. He couldn't find him. Finally he telephoned Dwyer's room. A sleepy voice answered: "It was during the time, said 'all right' and then hustled off to his hotel."

Anderson landed in front of the field in 1901-02-03-04-05. He also rates as the only player ever to have topped the prize three years in succession. He finished runnerup in 1897, making five appearances; he was one two in the ranking.

Zbyszko Wants His Age Tuned Down a Little

Stanislaus Zbyszko, Zbyszko, conqueror of Wayne ("Big") Munn, says the world is all wrong in attempting to guess his age. When the veteran Pole, flopped the giant Nebraska collegian, the reporters said that Zbyszko was fifty-two years old, some said fifty-six, and a few hit fifty-eight as the high mark.

Now, when the marvel of the wrestling world appears in matches throughout the country, old men with white hair and chin whiskers besiege him, offering congratulations.

"You're just my age," they tell him. All of which makes Zbyszko feel very ancient and he wishes the truth

Ball players give their stomachs just as much attention as possibly can be spared, once they join their teams in the spring. No matter what precautions are taken, their eats are the big thing off the ball-field. All of which recalls a little repartee between Nick Cullop and Ernie Koob, Louisville pitchers, one morning in the hotel at the Middle-training camp when they got up late for breakfast.

Cullop, remonstrated with Koob when the latter ordered three three-minute eggs.

"We haven't time to wait on that order," said Nick.

"Time?" questioned Ernie, "only ordered three-minute eggs."

"But you ordered three of them," reminded Nick, "and that makes nine minutes."

"I'll take a minute steak instead of those eggs," Ernie told the waiter.

"You can't get any steak cooked in a minute," insisted Cullop.

"I know," said Ernie, "but I can eat it in a minute."

Mythological Hero

In Greek mythology, Briareus was a giant with 100 arms and 50 heads. He was the son of Uranus and Gaia, and had two brothers, Gyges and Cottus, giants also. According to the most ancient tradition, Briareus and his brothers conquered the Titans when they made war upon the gods, and secured the victory to Jupiter, who thereupon thrust the Titans into Tartarus and appointed Briareus and his

WELL ONE DAY IN BED THREE

That Was the Life of Mrs. Hollister Until she Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wyandotte, Michigan. "After my baby was born I did not do my own work for six months and could hardly take care of my own baby. I always had a pain in my right side and it was so bad I was getting round shoulders. I would feel one day and then feel so bad for three or four days that I would be in bed. One Sunday my mother came to see how I was, and she said a friend told her to tell me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got a bottle and before it was half taken I got relief. After I was well again I went to the doctor and he asked me how I was getting along. I told him I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and he said it did not hurt any one to take it. He always recommended the Vegetable Compound to others and I always have a bottle of it on hand."—Mrs. HENRY HOLLISTER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 7, Wyandotte, Mich.

WHY SHOULD ANYONE SUFFER WITH INDIGESTION OR ANY STOMACH MISERY?

If you want to fix up your dyspepsia, out of order stomach so that you can relax what you eat with not the least bit of after distress, of what thousands of people have already done. Getting rid of gas, bloating, belching, heaviness and that feeling of near suffocation—these are the head-pain troubles that may think you're getting hold of the wrong medicine—that's all.

But better late than never—ask your druggist for a bottle of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—a real stomach medicine and very pleasant one. For acute indigestion one or two doses is enough, but when the trouble is chronic, two or three bottles may be needed to put your disordered stomach in good healthy condition and make life worth living.

Making a start is the main thing. Why not get one bottle today with the distinct understanding that if it doesn't help you the purchase price will be returned.

The American Legion

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

JAMES F. BARTON IS NATIONAL ADJUTANT

James F. Barton, formerly assistant national adjutant of the American Legion and prior to that for several years adjutant of the Iowa department, is now national adjutant. He succeeded Russell Creviston of Indiana, who retired at the end of July after a connection of six years with the national organization to become field director for the War Mothers' Memorial association at Washington.

The new adjutant has been active in the Legion ever since its formation. He was chosen commander of Fort Dodge post 130, Fort Dodge, Iowa, before the first national convention at Minneapolis in 1919. He became adjutant of the Iowa department in the fall of 1920. Prominent members of the Legion in Iowa say that a large part of the credit for making and keeping the Iowa department one of the best in the Legion belongs to Jim Barton.

Ten days after war was declared in 1917, Barton entered the service. In a month he was promoted to captain. He saw service overseas for 14 months. He was discharged at Camp Dodge, Iowa, August 8, 1918. He was a star athlete at the University of Iowa, where he captained the basketball team in his senior year. He took a law course there.

Mr. Creviston, immediately following his relinquishment of the duties of national adjutant, went to Rome, Italy, as secretary of the American Legion delegation to the Rome congress of Fidae. For that purpose he was granted a special leave of absence from his work as field director with the War Mothers' Memorial association, which is seeking to erect a great memorial in honor of the mothers of the men and women who served in the wars in which the country has taken part.

Resolutions of appreciation of Mr. Creviston's services with the Legion, together with a watch and a past national adjutant's badge as tokens of personal esteem, were presented to him on behalf of the national executive committee. The resolutions, drawn by a committee composed of Post National Commander, Harry L. Lindsay, National Commander, Hamilton MacNider and Donald Strachan, reflected Mr. Creviston's long and able services to the national organization and the devotion and understanding which he brought to his duties.

Mr. Creviston, whose home is at Madison, Ind., helped to plan the first national convention of the Legion at Minneapolis. He became assistant national adjutant in 1920 and was promoted to the national adjutancy in February, 1924, following the resignation of Lemuel Holtes. He is a graduate of Indiana university.

Good Shooting
The Stars and Stripes must never touch the ground.
E. P. Robertson was taught that when he was serving his nation in olive drab in far-off France. He remembered it recently while he was wearing the blue of a uniformed policeman at Atlanta, Ga.

Walking his beat Robertson saw a party of joy riders. Trail from their car was an American flag. It was being dragged through the dust and dirt and filth of the street.

Robertson's marksmanship record in the army is not known, but examination revealed that, although he fired but four shots to stop the desecrators of the flag, his sense of sight and balance was good; the rear tires of the fleeing automobile were each neatly bored twice by the former doughboy's fire.

Restoration Camp

"Camp American Legion," new restoration camp for veterans established through the instrumentality of the Legion department of Wisconsin, was dedicated at Tomahawk lake recently before an audience of 1,500 persons.

"Since the close of the war," said a Legion official, "hundreds of men have been discharged from hospitals with the advice from the staff physicians to get out into the open. The advice was not taken because the average former service man has no money to spend upon a vacation. As a result they went back to their old jobs and within a matter of months were back at the hospital with broken health again. This big summer camp at Tomahawk lake will provide the needed environment for large number of convalescent veterans."

SUMS SPENT FOR HIGHWAY TRAVEL

Much Money Spent for New Motor Vehicles and for Their Upkeep.

In most people's minds the amount of money spent for highway travel in a state is usually thought of only as the money invested in highway improvement. Yet that item in a state's transportation bill is always the smallest. In comparison to the sums spent for new motor vehicles and for their operation and upkeep.

Of Value to Car Owner.
An interesting tabulation published in the South Carolina Highway Bulletin for January, 1925, sheds some light on this matter which is of value to the motor car owner.

During the year 1924 there was expended in South Carolina approximately:

For new motor vehicles	$25,000,000
For gasoline	$16,000,000
For oil, tires, repairs and upkeep of motor vehicles	$21,000,000
This makes a total outlay in 1924 for motor vehicle operation of $62,000,000. Also there has been expended some $7,000,000 for road construction and maintenance, which is as much a part of motor-vehicle operation as is the buying of oil or gasoline.

The sums used for road purposes were furnished in part from gasoline taxes and motor vehicle license fees. In addition to these there have been expended about $2,000,000 in the improvement of city streets. Altogether, including miscellaneous and depreciation not covered by replacements, the total bill for highway transport in South Carolina for 1924 was approximately $75,000,000.

Obstructed Vacuum Tank Is Easily Cleared Out
Sometimes the vacuum tank of a fuel system remains dry when there is plenty of gasoline in the main tank. Generally this is due to foreign matter making its way into the fuel pipe between the two tanks and obstructing the passage of the liquid. When this is the case the simplest remedy consists of filling the float chamber of the carburetor with gasoline—usually drawn from the main tank—and then starting the engine. This will clear out the pipe line by suction nine times out of ten and the vacuum tank will begin operating again. Sometimes it is necessary to speed up the engine somewhat in order to loosen the obstruction.

Sudden Application of Brakes Is Bad Practice
The sudden application of automobile brakes and the consequent sliding of the wheels cause those who sit on the tread of the tires to wear them out. This is due to the fact that they are suddenly subjected to a heavy load. If the brakes are applied firmly but gently the car will stop as quickly, but without the disastrous results on the rear wheels which comes from jamming on the brakes. It would prevent the locking of the rear wheels, which causes the wheels to slide.

When the car is at a dead stop there is, of course, no wear on the tires, as there is no motion to produce external friction, the tire being in perfect contact with the road. If the car is started gently and slowly and nursed up to the proper speed the tire retains as nearly as possible the perfect contact with the road. Friction is held at a minimum and wear unnoticed.

How Owners Can Easily Test the Fuel Mixture
Car owners, particularly new ones, are often puzzled to know whether the mixture they are using is correct. To ascertain the correct proportions to be used, shut off the fuel at the tank and open the throttle. If the mixture that is going to the cylinders is too rich, the engine speed will increase as the level of the gasoline in the float chamber is lowered; since the operation weakens the mixture considerably. If the mixture is suspected of being too weak, the float chamber may be flooded while the engine is running and if the engine speeds up, it may be accepted as a sign that the mixture has not been rich enough.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES

Good brakes are twin brothers to safety. Have yours tested today.
The United States made 90 per cent of the world's production of automobiles in 1924.

No list of the things to avoid in summer is complete if it leaves out the Limited at the crossing.

The choke should be returned to its normal position just as soon as the motor will take it.
Twenty-three thousand two hundred and thirty-five taxicabs are in use in New York city.

Always lock the ignition switch when leaving the car. This not only makes theft of the car more difficult, but it prevents meddlers from turning on the switch and running down the battery.

Don't Bump Tires
When a car that is rolling along at a speed of 25 miles an hour strikes a stone or had bump the tire receives a blow at the point of impact of nine or ten tons in force. Many drivers who would regard it as an insane proposition to strike one of their inflated tires a blow with a ten-ton hammer ride merrily along day after day in their cars, taking no pains whatever to avoid bumps. Even the best tires give way in time under such treatment. A slight turn of the steering wheel when these obstructions are met means the saving of tire expense.

Muffler Cut-Out on Car Necessary for Testing
Nowadays the low-priced car is not provided with a cut-out; in fact it is against the law in many states. It is necessary, however, to have one for testing the engine.

FREEDOM FROM FAULT

"FREEDOM from fault," someone has said, "is no sign of greatness." It is what one does rather than what one refrains from doing that shows real character.

"You shouldn't get so angry," Deacon Alger said to Wagner. "You should control your temper as I do. Did you ever see me angry?"

"I control more temper in a day, Deacon," Wagner replied, "than you do in a year," and he was right.

The deacon was a plump, placid and satisfied person without a nerve in his body. Nothing excited him; he had no passions, no desires, no sudden impulses.

Poor Wagner had a devilish temper with which he struggled hourly and which he most frequently he subdued. He was a highly organized bundle of energy and nerves that needed constant direction and control. Sometimes the machinery got beyond his management, and he showed some feeling and anger, but this was not often. But Wagner did things; he accomplished something; he was a real power wherever you found him.

Great men have often had faults, and because of their greatness these flaws in their characters have often been much exaggerated and made to appear far out of proportion to their real significance. Webster was careless about paying his debts, but he was one of the greatest influences for good in the development of our national life that we have had.

Washington was profane, and made a close bargain, and much has been made of these facts, but he did more for the cause of higher education than any other man of his time, and more, possibly, proportionately through his own private donations than any other American excepting Mr. Rockefeller. In spite of his faults he stands out as one of the two greatest Americans.

Lincoln lacked social graces, and to the ultra-refined and refined and polished and erudite, but his service to his country was the greatest that any man has ever performed, and throughout the world he is recognized as the greatest and noblest man which the United States has produced.

It isn't much to say of a man that he has no faults. If he is to count much in the world, he must have some honest-to-goodness virtues, and having these he can afford to have a few faults.

IF I HAD A BOY

I HAVE never had a boy of my own, but I have had unusual opportunity for contact with boys from the time I was myself a youngster until the present.

Many boys grow up and develop and succeed and fail. I have come to see what characteristics and qualities and tendencies make for success and failure and happiness, and if I had a boy I should like to have him develop these qualities and receive this training.

If I had a boy I should want him to develop a strong, clean, healthy body. No matter how big or little, how slender or how husky a boy is, there is always some game or some form of physical exercise at which, if he keeps at it, he can excel and which will cultivate in him strength and reserve power and resistance to temptation and disease.

If I had a boy I should give him advice as to the work he should follow when he became a man, but I should so far as possible let him choose for himself. He must live his own life; he should, therefore, choose his own business or profession. Having chosen, he should have the best training and preparation that I could afford.

I should want my boy to be a clean sportsman, to do his share in any undertaking of which he was a part, to pay the penalty when he made a mistake or was defeated, without excuse and without whining.

I should want him to know how to work and to have become so much interested in some sort of work that he would like it. When I speak of work I mean not only work with the hands that brings physical weakness, but work with the brain that brings mental exhaustion. One never knows what he can do either with his body or his brain until he has been in a position where it was necessary to push each one to the limit.

Two men I know are trying to devise some trick or some short cut which will make it possible for them to get out of work, either mental or physical, and these boys quite generally fail. There are three things which every boy should strive for if he wishes to succeed—thorough training, a strong character, and a willingness to work.

Squiblets
It is believed that coal smoke and soot in large American cities may be a cause of cancer.
The economic loss from mental disease in this country is estimated at $800,000,000 annually.
Japanese florists have succeeded in cultivating a rose which appears red in the sunlight and white in the shade.
Statistics are said to show that more money has been spent in drilling for oil than has been received from the sale of the petroleum produced.

Mining Men in Alaska Make Use of Airplane

It is becoming a common occurrence for mining men to use the airplane for trips between mining camps in the interior of Alaska and also in northern western Canada. Norman L. Wimmer, placer mining engineer of the United States Bureau of mines, recently flew from Fairbanks, Alaska, to Eagle, an airline distance of about two hundred miles, in less than three hours, says Compressed Air Magazine.

Two modern airplanes now make regular trips out of Fairbanks—these bringing that center within a few hours' travel of Tokovann, Kantishna, Seward, Circle City and other mining districts in the Yukon.

Shoes for Bird Dogs

As part of the equipment of bird hunters using dogs, an eastern sportsman recommends, wool-lined, sole-leather boots be laced upon the four feet of the dog. "This saves many nasty bruise cuts, stubble bruises and shoes and hinders the dog from coming quite willing that they should be placed upon his feet, for he realizes after his first hunt that his feet are not tender and cut up as is usual when hunting rough and weed-infested country," says this hunter.
